Re: Confocal Usage and NIH Acknowledgement

Date: 31 March 2005

As part of the requirements of our federal funding agency, the National Institutes of Health, National Center for Research Resources, we are requesting that any publication resulting from the use of the new confocal microscope in your facility be appropriately acknowledged to NIH for having provided the funds for the purchase of this equipment. The following is the correct verbiage to acknowledge the federal funding agency: NIH Required Acknowledgement: This publication was made possible by NIH Grant Number P20 RR16456 from the BRIN Program of the National Center for Research Resources. Its contents are solely the responsibility of the authors and do not necessarily represent the official views of NIH.

We will need a list of everyone who has used this equipment since November 3, 2003 (last updated list), and we will need periodic updated lists on users along with their contact information. Please inform past, present and future researchers of the need to acknowledge NIH in any publication resulting from the use of this equipment.

Additionally, we request a copy of any publication resulting from the use of this equipment which will be housed in our program office. Please forward all user lists and publications to:
